

First Grade Class Teacher

We are seeking a Waldorf trained first grade Class Teacher whose love for teaching and children is complemented by an ability to work with colleagues and parents. Come join a dedicated faculty, a highly supportive community, and a school with phenomenal programs that provide a rich Waldorf education to our children. We strive to meet our mission to inspire and educate children to think, feel, and act with depth, imagination, and purpose.

Salaries are based on education and experience. Our benefit package includes medical and dental coverage, partial tuition remission, 403(b) retirement plan, and financial support for continuing professional development. We offer a mentoring program, and strong, supportive collegial relationships.

Candidates will hold a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, have completed their Waldorf teacher training or are currently enrolled in a Waldorf teacher training program and have class teaching experience.

To apply, send a letter of interest, your resume and a short autobiography to Cecilia Liss, Academic Director cliss@twsb.org.

For more information please contact Cecilia Liss on 410-367-6808 ext. 209 or email cliss@twsb.org.

Our School

Founded in 1971, we have been a full member of AWSNA since 1985. Our beautiful campus in northern Baltimore City is situated on a wooded hillside adjacent to Cylburn Arboretum. The school reflects the diverse nature of its community, drawing students from urban, suburban and rural areas. We are housed in our own beautiful purpose-built building overlooking the city.

Baltimore is vibrant and culturally-rich, offering world-class music, art and restaurants; yet it still has a small town feel. New York, Washington and Philadelphia are a day trip away. Surrounded by the richness of the Chesapeake Bay, it is easily accessible to mountains and ocean beaches.
